

Amy Niles

Amy Niles serves as Chair of Medical Relations/Advocacy for Together Rx Access, LLC. The Together Rx Access® Card is a FREE prescription savings card for eligible individuals and families who lack prescription drug coverage and are not eligible for Medicare.

As Chair, Niles forges alliances with national, state and community-based medical and health advocacy organizations. By working with these groups and individual healthcare professionals, Niles heightens awareness about the Program, assisting the uninsured in gaining access to the medicines they need to live healthier lives.

Examples of groups Niles has worked with at the national level include the National Rural Health Association, American Association of Family Physicians, National Medical Association, National Hispanic Medical Association, American Association of Nurse Practitioners, American Association of Physician Assistants, NAMI, American Cancer Society, American Diabetes Association, and the American Public Health Association. At the state and community level, Niles routinely works with the local chapters of the national organizations, advocacy groups and community leaders to inform the public and healthcare professionals about the prescription savings program.

Prior to her work with Together Rx Access, Niles was President and CEO of the National Women's Health Resource Center (NWHRC) for nearly fifteen years. She began her career in healthcare administration in hospitals in New York and Washington, D.C.

Niles holds a master's degree in business administration from Baruch College, City University of New York. She graduated the University of Rochester with an undergraduate degree in biology.
